Jeff Wilson has served the Athletic Training profession through his clinical experiences and leadership in an emerging setting. Jeff provided care for a wide variety of patients through working in an outreach clinic. His foresight, along with Dr. Robert Baker, brought orthopedic rehabilitation and post-operative care to countless patients throughout southwest Michigan. The clinic Jeff served, Kalamazoo Valley Orthopedics (now Bronson Sports Medicine), also provided Athletic Trainers to the local secondary schools through the outreach program he oversaw. Colleagues have described Jeff as “progressive, educated, considerate, and dedicated to the Athletic Training profession.”
