Carol Moss has served the Athletic Training profession through her vast clinical and volunteering experiences. Carol provided care for a wide variety of patients through working at several stops in intercollegiate athletics. She provided exceptional care to countless patients (student-athletes) while at Kent State University (1981-1988), Western Michigan University (1989-2000), and Albion College (2000-2020). In addition to her clinical experience, she developed the next generation of Athletic Trainers as Clinical Coordinator at Albion College (2000-2020). Carol volunteered for the Athletic Training profession through assisting the Board of Certification with practical exam testing (1982-2001) and Exam Development Committee (2002-2024). Additionally, she presented at numerous conferences such as the MIAA annual student symposium, MATS, GLATA, and NATA. For Carol's considerable service for the Athletic Training profession, she earned the Board of Certification's Dan Libera service award in 2013. Colleagues have described Carol as "humble, leads by example, benevolent, brilliant, and dedicated to the Athletic Training profession."
